Re: Chem-Aire®

The Chemtrol business team announced today its intention to discontinue the Chem-Aire product line of compressed air piping systems manufactured from specially modified ABS resin. Our ABS resin supplier has withdrawn from non-automotive ABS markets resulting in the discontinuance of raw material supply to produce Chem-Aire. We intend to allow 90 days of Chem-Aire purchases from this announcement date with no new sales accepted after Friday, June 6, 2008. The 90-day ordering window is completely dependent upon availability of raw material currently on hand.

A listing of Chem-Aire flanges and socket union assemblies with male / female brass or stainless steel end connectors will be available through our Technical Services department after June 6th, allowing users a means of transitioning to alternate piping materials (dependent upon raw material supply). We highly encourage distributors to place an inventory order of essential items necessary to support the requirements of existing Chem-Aire users into the future. Beginning today, all Chem-Aire products are designated as "make-to-order" (MTO) status.

We realize many questions may arise regarding Chem-Aire. Please contact your local sales representative, NIBCO Technical Services, or me with any questions. We thank you for your business and support of Chemtrol.

Sincerely,
