

Round bars in the face of each rotor pole piece attached to the ring on each side. I think there are 6 bars in each pole.

The photograph shows a close-up of a rotor pole face. It features several vertical, cylindrical bars. Two yellow arrows point from the text boxes to these bars. The background is a complex, metallic structure with various components and wiring.

Damping Winding Ring that the bars in the rotor pole face are attached to.